BRADFORD FIRE – 30 YEARS ON

May 11 this year saw the 30th anniversary of the Bradford City Stadium Fire, when 56 fans attended a football match, and never came home.

The founder of CCP, Michael Stewart, led the award-winning Bradford Council emergency response team which helped the bereaved and survivors in the months following the tragedy.

It was during those darkest of days that Michael saw an opportunity to extend this specialist support to those involved in major traumatic incidents, through a coordinated approach. This resulted in the launch of CCP.

In the intervening 30 years much has improved in both the attitude and response to trauma care, as well as general safety at football stadia.

However, our thoughts are and always will be with those people who lost their lives on that spring afternoon.

RAPID RESPONSE TO OVERSEAS INCIDENTS

CCP's rapid response to traumatic incidents abroad helped staff from specialist tour operator Hotelplan, and its customers, deal with the aftermath of a coach crash in the Alps which left a number of passengers injured, and the tragic resort death of a young man.

“We are hugely grateful to CCP for their speedy response and the exceptional level of support they provided following these difficult events. Everyone involved said CCP's input and advice was of enormous benefit and we are now planning to involve them in our pre-season winter training next season.”

Hugh Walton, Executive Director, Hotelplan
